Dear Akhila Vittal,

Thank you for your interest in visiting Canada. After a careful review of your temporary resident visa application and supporting documentation, I have determined that your application does not meet the requirements of the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act and Regulations. I am refusing your application.

In making a decision on an application, a number of factors are considered. These may include but are not limited to:

- the information in the travel and identity documents;
- the reason for the travel to Canada;
- the person's contacts in Canada;
- the person's ties to his or her country of residence (including immigration status, employment and family ties);
- the person's ability to pay for the trip and to support himself or herself while in Canada;
- whether the person is likely to respect the conditions of his or her admission to Canada;
- whether the person is inadmissible to Canada; and
- whether the person would be likely to leave Canada at the end of his/her authorized stay.

To help you understand my decision, the reason(s) are provided on the following pages.

You are welcome to reapply if you feel that you can respond to these concerns and can demonstrate that your situation meets the requirements. All new applications must be accompanied by a new processing fee.

Sincerely,

Consulate General of Canada
